A Life Changing Way to Cut Grapes

Anyone who has spent time in the kitchen knows the pain of standing at the kitchen counter cutting grapes or cherry tomatoes in half for a salad. You can practically make every other course of the meal combined in the time it takes just to perform this one task.

Enter Rob Goodhue. Rob is an executive chef at a country club in Florida. For ten years he's been watching his wife cut grapes and tomatoes the "normal" way, before finally suggesting that he knew an "easier" way to do it: Just lay them on a plate. Gently press another plate on top. Then simply use a sharp knife to slice between the two and in seconds you have an entire plate of sliced grapes or cherry tomatoes.

Rob's "easier" method has gone viral on the internet, and one blogger called him "the most genius husband in the universe". Mrs. Goodhue agrees.

Maybe you've spent your entire life doing things "the normal way", totally unaware that there is a simpler technique which promises to be an ultimate life changer, not just here and now, but forever, and all you need is a willing spirit and a change of attitude. In fact, with a simple shift in heart-attitude, you can transform even the most tedious and mundane activities into worship, and use every opportunity to bring glory to God.

1 Corinthians 10:31

So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God.

I love you all,
Tim
