Squeeze More Joy Out of Every Day Happiness

Time magazine once ran an article titled "14 Ways to Squeeze More Joy out of Every Day." The author, Ellen Seidman, said this:

"Sometime this morning, during your shower or at work, you probably did a mental run-through of your day. You decided when you'd tackle various tasks and errands. Perhaps you vowed to hit the gym at lunchtime. Maybe you plotted to get out of something (apologies, PTA meeting). The one thing you forgot to plan for: happiness."

The author then gives a list of 14 ways to be happy suggested by Barbara Fredrickson, a social psychologist at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The list, among other things, includes the following suggestions about how to be happy: "Make happiness your goal, know what makes you happy, prioritize it, and think happy thoughts."

A man, living in the third century, was dying when he wrote these last words to a friend:

"It's a bad world, an incredibly bad world. But I have discovered in the midst of it a quiet and holy people who have learned a great secret. They have found a joy which is a thousand times better than any pleasure of our sinful life. They are despised and persecuted, but they care not. They are masters of their souls. They have overcome the world. They are truly a joyful people. These people are the Christians ... and I am one of them" (Riding the Joy Train by Wanda Jo Pence).

Christians have learned a great secret: Jesus is the reason for the joy of joys. His presence in our life and the promise of eternal life in heaven with Him brings a transforming joy to any set of circumstances. So if you want to squeeze more joy out of everyday life, fit more of Jesus into it.

John 15:11 Jesus said, "I have told you this so that my joy may be in you and that your joy may be complete".

I love you all,
Tim
