Man Robs Bank to Escape Wife

The Associated Press reports:

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A 70-year-old man accused of robbing a bank in Kansas told investigators he would rather be imprisoned than live with his wife.

Court documents say Lawrence John Ripple gave a note to a bank teller in Kansas City on Friday, demanding cash and warning he had a gun. Ripple took the money and went to sit in the lobby where he told a guard, "I'm the guy you're looking for."

Officers arrived quickly. An FBI agent wrote in the affidavit that Ripple had earlier been arguing with his wife. He told investigators he wrote the note in front of his wife, telling her he would "rather be in jail than at home."

Just in case you thought Solomon was exaggerating when he wrote about how difficult it is to live with a quarrelsome spouse, consider Lawrence John Ripple, whose wife made jail sound better than home.

The following principles apply equally to both husband and wife. Instead of taking issue with how your spouse does things, try to be supportive. Instead of insisting on your way, prefer to please your spouse. Instead of fighting over who's right, swallow your pride. Make your home a place your spouse longs to be by avoiding a quarrelsome spirit.

Proverbs 25:24

It's better to live alone in the corner of an attic than with a quarrelsome wife in a lovely home.

I love you all,

Tim
