A WORD FROM BRUCE

WATS – We Are The Sermon is this afternoon right after our potluck and devotional.

Have you ever bought a new (new to you) car, puppy, bike, cell phone, etc... Do you remember telling someone about it? If you're a parent footing the bills you may have asked, "How much did it cost?" Many times the first words out of their mouths are, "What kind is it?" Here are some thoughts to help us become mentally, emotionally, spiritually aware of our inmost being as we serve.

Self-righteous service comes through human effort.

True service comes from a relationship with the divine Other deep inside.

Self-righteous service is impressed with the "big deal."

True service finds it almost impossible to distinguish the small from the large service.

Self-righteous service requires external rewards.

True service rests contented in hiddenness.

Self-righteous service is highly concerned about results.

True service is free of the need to calculate results.

Self-righteous service picks and chooses whom to serve.

True service is indiscriminate in its ministry.

Self-righteous service is affected by moods and whims.

True service ministers simply and faithfully because there is a need.

Self-righteous service is temporary.

True service is a life-style.

Self-righteous service is without sensitivity. It insists on meeting the need even when to do so would be destructive.

True service can withhold the service as freely as perform it.

Self-righteous service fractures community.

True service, on the other hand, builds community.

Richard Foster, Celebration of Discipline, "The Discipline of Service."

Nobody can deny the fact that far too many young people behave recklessly at times. Please don't be one of them. If your peers try to convince you to do something that is foolish, dangerous, or both, run- don't walk- in the opposite direction.

Maturity and safety go hand in hand. Why? Because a big part of being a mature human being is learning how to look around and think things through before you do something that you might regret later.

As the old saying goes, "Look before you leap." And those words apply whether you're "leaping" by yourself or with a whole bunch of friends. In fact, if you want to live happily ever after, you should look very carefully before you decide whether or not to leap. After all, it's easy to leap, but once you're in the middle of your jump, it's too late to leap back.

A wise man will hear and increase learning, and a man of understanding will attain wise counsel.
